HAVAS

Paris, 16th—President Carnot left this morning on a tour through the South East Departments.

GALVESTON.

Rome, 13th—Chenar, correspondent of a French newspaper, has been expelled from Rome.

London, 13th—Stanley arrived yesterday at Cannes.

Lisbon, 13th—The King and Queen will soon make a tour through the principal cities. His Majesty will speak, show the necessity of keeping cool during the negotiations with England, and will appeal to the loyalty and patriotism of the Portuguese to listen to his advices: thank will also be given for their support to the monarchy.

Berlin, 13th.—The Emperor is determined to carry out in the strictest manner all the measures mooted. Of the Government measures nothing more is known than the military bill for 80 million marks fresh credits.

Brussels, 13th—Stanley pleaded bad health when refusing the invitation of King Leopold to attend the Anti-Slave Congress.

Madrid, 14th—There is little doubt that the Cabinet will fall before July. A general opinion is rampant that monarchy will collapse before the meeting of the Cortes. Another republican experiment is at hand.

The fall of Sagasta is certain; Martinez Campos will probably be his successor although Canovas del Castillo is spoken of.

In many parts of Spain there is a belief that the Baby-King died of influenza and that the country is being deceived with a pretender.

Paris, 16th—Emperor William has sent Jules Simon a handsome collection of the literary works of Frederick the Great.

Stanley left on Thursday for this city.

London, 16th—A mammoth bank is proposed in Rome.

King Leopold denies the report that Emperor William offered to buy the Congo free-state.

The Duke of Edinburg and Prince George arrived at Stuttgart with the Order of the Garter for the King of Wurtemberg.

London, 15th—The Birkenhead Dock Company has refused to listen to the demand for shorter hours and five thousand dockers have struck.

Berlin, 15th—The Emperor gave audience to Major General Balfras, bearer of an autograph letter from Emperor Francis - Joseph. The Emperor then entertained him at dinner in the Castle; the Austrian Ambassador in Berlin and other notabilities were present.

Vienna, 16th—Six thousand carpenters have struck; they want more pay and less work.

Madrid, 16th—All efforts to extinguish the great factory fire (gas works, no do doubt) have been in vain. The conflagration spreads and he lights in the city are out.

THE SITUATION

The political meeting held last Sunday in the Calle Cordoba ball alley has caused the fall of a Cabinet, a "degringolade" in the gold premium, a rise in stocks in general, and a radical change in the position of electoral parties. The force of public opinion is irresistible, but it is the first time in the Argentine record that such extraordinary results have followed in the wake of a public expression of that opinion. It is idle to deny the fact. The meeting has caused the present unprecedented reform in political and financial affairs, and not all the denial of men in power or of men in the press can shake this conviction now rooted in the popular mind. We may add that the rise in the gold premium and the fall in stocks have been most potent factors in the sudden shifting of the scenes, but both the rise in the precious metal and the fall in the waste paper are directly influenced by the people, and are therefore in themselves eloquent exponents of public trust or distrust; the gold premium, in fact, may be accepted as an unerring barometer of public opinion.

Now that danger appears to have been removed, it may be stated that the extraordinary excitement of last week and the collateral rise in the gold premium arose from a well founded dread that a revolution might break out at any moment. The excitement of the people had reached fever height, and a political crisis of the most serious nature was at hand. The fall of the ministry has removed those fears and those dread possibilities, for all saw in the change of Cabinet a stoppage in the ruinous course pursued and the advent of a new financial and political regime. Confidence returned and, on the strength of the news of the sale of the Western Railway by the Buenos Ayres Government, a successful campaign was made against the gold premium. The premium has been driven down from 315 to 258—a fall of 57 points. This violent change of front was enhanced by the news that the three leading aspirants to the next presidency had agreed to forego all their chances of getting into power and to work in common for the common weal, political and financial.

We fail to see the value of such politics, disinterestedness, unless it be to make room for some more fortunate politician who may succeed in securing the undivided support of the governing party. Such a sentimental policy has, no doubt, been dictated by fears that the opposition party would sooner or later overcome the National party, if the latter were divided into fractions. Yet, it is most amusing to see the great figure of a party, the sheet anchor, in fact, of that party, volunteer to resign his hopes and ambition in favor of some unknown mortal who up to the present must stand in the light of mediocrity in the eyes of all, especially when confronted with the prestige, the services, and the political talents of the statesman who abdicates his position. This is all nonsense, even in this very best of worlds; it is a politic al sentimentality that must vanish with the first strong blast of public opinion. A public man does not belong to himself; he belongs to his country, and when he is wanted he must come to the front.

Still, all this kind of thing has inspired confidence and has helped to considerably intensify the effect of the sale of the Western Railway to a London syndicate for 41 million gold dollars. This operation is a providential auxiliary in the improvement of the situation; with the proceeds the Buenos Ayres Government will be able to wipe out 25 millions of foreign debt, with a heavy annual service, and will remain with a substantial balance of 16 millions gold. With this balance the La Plata Finance Minister will be able to pay off the debt of 25 millions paper to the Provincial Bank, and hand a very handsome sum, as balance carried forward, to the new Governor, Dr. Julio Costa, who takes office next month. In fact the sale of the railway will put the provincial government on its legs and give it breathing time for the next two years, when some other great financial operation will, no doubt, be contemplated to relieve the traditional squeeze in the La Plata treasury.

The sale of the railway is at the bottom of the sudden fall in the gold market. The bankers and heavy capitalists got hold of the news in anticipation of the dull public and sold millions at top prices; the lazy market followed the impulse, and then came a panicky fall. All this was providentially helped by a change in the National Cabinet and a guarantee of the National party to keep united, in the shape of political resignation and abstinence on the part of the three supposed candidates of that party for the next Presidency.

A great share of the honors of this bearish campaign in gold falls to the new National Finance Minister, Mr. Francis Uriburu, who must be very much elated with the extraordinary success that has attended his appointment to that high trust. But, let the Minister not be deceived; as long as the causes of the present financial, now nearly economic, crisis are not removed, the intermittent falls in gold we have chronicled from time to time will continue to be ephemeral. The cause, the great cause, must be removed; a thorough cleansing of the Augean stable of state banking must take place. An end must be put to the scandalous abuse of credit, under the ægis of state-banking irresponsibility. If this be not done, all the improvement of the last two days will prove a flash in the pan. The National Government and its Provincial governments must learn to forego the luxury of banks. Banks must be manipulated on banking, not on political, social, or friendly principles—and this can only be effected by a radical measure ordering the liquidation of all state-banks, including the National Bank of this city and the Provincial Bank of the La Plata Government. This is the only means of getting out of the present financial mess; all other means will be so much dust to blind the public eye. The public are tired of patching measures. The country is surfeited with a financial game at cross purposes. The new Minister must resort to radical measures if he wish to emerge from the nebulous situation that hid the policy of his predecessor from telescopic view.

Politics have played a certain part in the sudden improvement in the market. It is now believed that the President will let politics alone to devote his energy and ability to curing the crisis. It is also expected that the party supporting him will, one and all, co operate in such a patriotic policy, and that the bone of contention will not be thrown in their midst for several months to come. All this sounds like political concord—long may it last.

LONDON LETTER.

SOUTHERN BRAZILIAN RIO GRANDE DO SUL RAILWAY COMPANY.

(From our own Correspondent)

March 1st.

Last week I sent you a summary of certain disparaging statements that were circulated by some discontented shareholders in the Southern Brazilian Company. I took care to warn you that the statements were "ex parte". The directors have thought it worth while to issue a circular to the shareholders contradicting the assertions made and urging them to attend a special general meeting soon to be held, or to send proxies not later than the morning of 5th March.

The first question the directors refer to in their circular is the complaint of the disaffected shareholders—Mr. Austin and others—that the holdings of the directors were not proportionate to their position and responsibility. To this it is replied that the share qualification of directors is fixed by the Articles of Association, and the complaint should therefore be directed against those regulations.

In regard to the assertion that Messrs Morton, Rose & Co. were to be paid by the French Company 10 per cent on the total amount of share and debenture capital for undertaking the conversion of the French shares, the directors show that by the nature of the contracts made by the Company in March 1883, a certain risk fell upon the French shareholders who, to secure themselves, sold "firm" to Messrs. Morton, Rose & Co. the whole capital at 90 per cent, with liberty to carry out this sale by guaranteeing the subscription at par in consideration of 10 per cent. The approval of the Board on this operation was neither asked nor given. The French shareholders, like any others, had a perfect right to sell as they chose.

In regard to a statement respecting a commission given to Messrs. Morton, Rose and Co. for paying dividends, &c., at their offices, the directors say it is so, and that, moreover, the commission so paid has appeared in the accounts of the company ever since its formation, and no one has disputed the convenience of the arrangement.

Mr. Charles Neate, the engineer, against whom certain aspersions were made, defends himself in a short letter appended to the directors' circular. His defence is simply that the plans of the line were settled and partly carried out by the French engineers before he took charge, and no alterations could have been made without the intervention of the Fiscal Engineer appointed by the Government.

Mr. Neate does not admit that the line was constructed with "insufficient solidity," and he thinks it is as good a line as others in Brazil, but he acknowledges that with the recent experience of floods, the waterways are insufficient. He says in tropical and sub-tropical countries it is always difficult to calculate the sufficiency of waterways. He is of opinion that the cost of repairs will not exceed the estimates made, amounting to £25,000.

You will find enclosed a full copy of the Berlin Conference programme. The results of the second ballots come in slowly, but as far as they go, the Socialists and Democrats continue their successes. Prince Bismarck can then have no working majority in the Reichstag without leaning on the Catholic centre, or he may be obliged to dissolve. He is thoroughly beaten, and the method he may select for recovering his power will make German politics interesting.

ARGENTINE MINING IN THE PARIS EXHIBITION OF 1889.

It is with pleasure that we announce the return of Mr. H. D. Hoskold, Director-General, and Mr. Charles Lynes Hoskold's first engineer in the Department of Mines and Geology of the Nation, who have so successfully brought before the world the importance of the Argentine Republic as a mining country.

Abroad, and even in Buenos Aires, the mining industry has been completely overlooked and ignored, except to a very limited number of persons, and although attempts have, at various intervals, been made to attract attention, they have proved futile.

Some fourteen months before the last Exhibition of Paris, Mr. Hoskold, although surrounded by many difficulties, commenced to organize a show and succeeded in preparing a magnificent collection of minerals from all the provinces—his own valuable and private collection forming the basis. An exhaustive and illustrated "Memoria" was written by him, and the minerals were classified, assayed and classified in the Department of Mines and Geology. In Paris, the collection was exhibited under the title of "Gobierno Nacional," and its completeness, good organisation, variety and richness, created great surprise among those interested in this branch of industry.

French, English, Belgian, American and other nationalities expressed their blissful ignorance that the Republic was capable of producing such mineral wealth, and several capitalists and industrials stated their intention of entering into mining negociations in this country, which offers such a new and valuable field of enterprise.

Messrs. Hoskold were named upon the International Jury of Awards, and by their attention, energy and perseverance soon secured the good-will of their fellow-jurors, and thus obtained, in proportion to the number of mines in work and their output, a greater number of awards than some of the older mining countries of America.

We are informed that the jury demanded, before making awards, the amount of capital invested and interest obtained upon it, output of mineral, number of workmen employed, improvements in the mining operations, and that the exhibit should be in accord with the importance of the company exhibiting. It will thus be seen that ours was at that time a very doubtful case; nevertheless, although there were but four exhibitors, we have obtained for mining alone one grand prize, three gold medals, one silver, and one honorable mention, which places the Argentine Republic on a level with the other older mining countries of South America.

It is strange that although in the Exhibition of Philadelphia the Argentine Republic was represented by rich argentiferous minerals, for one reason or another, nothing but a "mencion honorable" was awarded.

The following is an extract from a letter directed by the Argentine Delegate in the late Exhibition to the President of the Directive Commission of Buenos Aires, and does honor to the Messrs. Hoskold::—

"It is with pleasure that I recommend to you and the other members of the Commission the services rendered by these gentlemen to the country on this occasion.

"They formed part of the International Jury of Mines, and in that position contributed powerfully in the awarding of prizes to the Republic, and which this branch of industry merited.

"Furthermore, they undertook to receive in our section all those who wished to examine the collection of minerals, and gave them the explanations and data required with the greatest interest, taking upon themselves as much work as though they had been treating affairs of personal interest for themselves.

"I have proof that in their relations, for this object, with the scientists of these countries, they have made personal expenses, but have never proceeded to recover them from this commission.

"Lately while in England, they continued there the propaganda in favour of the mineral riches of our country, and it is they who distributed several hundred copies of the Memoria upon Mines which will not be lost to us in that country where the greater part of the companies are formed to explore mines in all countries of the world.

"This commission owes another service to Mr. H. D. Hoskold, and it is an important work upon the minerals and mines of all the countries exhibiting in the late Exhibition, which he has written especially for the work prepared by order of the commission over which you preside.

"I trust you will receive favourably these assurances which I make spontaneously in honour of the brothers Hoskold."

We trust that the Government will facilitate every necessary means to enable the Department of Mines and Geology to carry on the important investigations that its director has so often solicited, especially considering the indefatigable perseverance and good results obtained by it up to the present.

It is not too much to anticipate that in the future the mining industry of the Argentine Republic will attract universal attention, and the Department should have every assistance given to it so that it might form the centre of all the mining movement in the country, thus offering to capitalists and others, both foreign and national, all the assistance and guarantee they may require, enabling the Department to prevent the fraudulent mining speculations which from time to time have taken place to the discredit of such an important national industry.

PARIS LETTER

(From our own Correspondent.)

March 14th, 1890.

No one considered that the Tirard Cabinet contained the elements of longevity, but still it was quite practicable that had it walked circumspectly over the burning marl of home politics it could have remained in office as long as any other, for the men expected to come in are, in political stature, not a whit taller or more robust than those who disappear. There are no Sauls topping the crowd head and shoulders.

After the general elections last October M. Tirard and his colleagues ought to have resigned or brought out a programme to meet the new Chamber, whose members certainly were not returned to continue the do-nothingism of their predecessors. Neither course was adopted; the Cabinet lay "like a painted ship upon a painted ocean." Every day it lost whatever grip it possessed on the Parliament, and it had ceased to be in touch with the country. Home Minister Constans divined the situation well by resigning in the nick of time, but his withdrawal resembled the prowess of Sampson, he pulled down the pillars of the institution.

M. Tirard has been caught in the whirling waters of protection. He is a free-trader at present, as he has been all his life. But he has failed to read aright the signs of the times, which clearly showed that France had become protectionist. This is not intended to mean that either France is right or that she will be able to carry out a next to prohibitive commercial policy. She is an old country with old positions in the world to guard and to keep. At her historical age it is a dangerous experiment to make a clean demolition of her commercial system; and, to conclude, she can freely dictate the plan or the conditions of re-edification.

The cause of the Cabinet's defeat is a striking illustration of this. Turkey has no system of commercial tariffs like a Western Power; she makes concessions rather than treaties, and farms her customs in the sense of mortgaging their revenues to raise loans. Indeed, she lives rather on borrowed money than on money raised by taxes. Her commercial engagements with France, first negotiated in June, 1802, then extended and liberalized in 1838 and 1861, by their expiration a few days ago leave her and France perfectly free.

Premier M. Tirard, and M. Spuller, Minister for Foreign Affairs, desired to continue the treaty till 1892, on the basis of the most favored nation clause. This the protectionist majority in the Senate would not listen to, and in a House of 227 members, defeated the Government proposal by 47. The fight was over the importation of raisins, out of which the French manufacture a common, but wholesome wine, of a very cheap kind, and which competes with native ordinary growths, or preparations. By the division Turkish raisins are virtually excluded from France, since the general tariff—next to prohibitive, will be applied to them. Turkey of course will retaliate, and perhaps after the Argentine Republic the Levant is the chief market for French productions and manufactures. France has lost the "love of the Greeks", by dealing similarly with their "currants," and the bad relations have not been bettered by the Duke of Sparta marrying a sister of the Emperor of Germany.

It would be useless indulging in speculations on the composition of the new Cabinet. Sixty candidates are in the field. M. de Freycinet is always to the fore, when wanted for a stop gap premiership; he was premier four times, so, like eels being skinned, he is accustomed to being turned in, and turned out. The country wants ministers that will do something; instead the nation receives sonorous words froth, windbagism; nothing solid. The people ask for bread, and they get the stone. They are fed by promises too often couched in incomprehensible language, that which appears to be not always unacceptable. The word 'Mesopotamia' in the parson's sermon was a "sursum corda" for many of the congregation. The moment a minister draws up a programme, he draws up his death warrant. It is seized as the occasion to oust him. Perhaps the all-round programme is, defeating cabinets and constituting new ones. That appears to be the only way to appease office seekers. And since eleven months is the average duration of a French ministry, this shortlivedness enables a great many Richmonds to taste the official loaves and fishes.

The state of affairs at Dahomey is still an unknown quantity. There is no doubt, of course, that France will overcome all resistance on the part of the king. But does she intend to chastise and retire as England did at Cromassie and Magdala; or will she protect the country, add more bad colony to her large stock of lumber colonies? If she intends to Tonkinize the region, she has many anxieties before her. Not the least are the friendly hints from England, that she would be unnecessarily near Lagos and the Niger sphere of British influence, while Germany, who has been throwing sheep's eyes on Ashantee, to compensate her addled egg of Damara Land, objects to the Gaul coming so close there to her kibes. Perhaps there are not more than 130 French, that is European subjects, inhabiting the Slave Coast, and the trade cannot be very important.

France makes a very presentable appearance at the Berlin Labor Conference. She has taken to the affair seriously. Her five official delegates are all authorities; one, M. Delahaye, is a mechanical engineer, daily earning his bread by the sweat of his brow, but in touch with real toilers, and well acquainted with their wants and their aspirations. Deputy Burdeau, is an economist, who seeks solutions, and wastes no time in disquisitions. As for Senator Tolain, since he, once an engraver, has become a pure political hack, he has no weight with the "ouvriers." Senator Jules Simon is the figure-head of the delegation; a well-known unctuous orator, and a winning writer; he treats, however, all social questions from the philosophical point of view. He had formerly weight with the workmen, but they have long since followed younger and more resolute leaders.

There is no change in the opinion arrived at, that the Labor Conference will not be productive of any tangible benefit for the working classes outside Germany. The proceedings may shame Germany into adopting the ameliorative labor-legislation of England. Respecting the cessation of work on Sundays, that is a question of national manners. To protect women and children against overwork is a matter of simple humanity; as to limiting the labor-hours of adult labor, that is impracticable. There can be no uniformity in salaries; they are dependent on the influence of "milieu". For example, the salary of agricultural laborers is, in the department of the Seine 4 frs. per day, and 3 frs. in other departments, while it is but fr. 1½ in Bretagne. Outside Paris, women earn per day in sons, as semptresses, 33; laundresses 36; artificial flower makers 42, and lace makers 53. In Paris these wage-rates are 45 o/o higher.

A few years ago the Labour Bureau of Washington published a comparison of the weekly wage-earning of several trades as follows:—

	Masons	Carpenters	Tinsmiths	Cabinet makers
	fr.	fr.	fr.	fr.
Germany...	21	20	18	20
France.....	25	27	22	30
England...	41	41	36	38
New York.	75	52	60	55

What conference could dominate the antipodean conditions here at work, so as to uniformize the rate of wage!

Respecting coal mines, of which there are 358 in France, whose united out-put is 23 million tons, or one-third less than her actual requirements, they employ 103,200 persons, of whom 3,200 are women, and 7,700 children. It is impossible to ascertain the salaries of each class, as the French lump the earnings of the three; but the average daily earning, pending 287 working days, was 3¾ frs.

The French are very much alarmed at the McKinley tariff bill now before the American Senate. If it passes, there will not be much chance of European goods entering the States. The French ought to be the last to complain, as they exclude American pork and corn by a prohibitive duty. America desires to push her own wine, her own silk, her own art. I have been informed that France is not the less inundated with American hams and bacon; these are shipped first to England, branded as Yorkshire and Wiltshire products, and then whisked into Havre. Many years ago the Irish paper manufacturers could not compete with the French makers; they shipped their paper to France, had it made up, and then met with a brisk home sale.

The Colonial Congress has not been velvety with M. de Brazza; the members objected to his plan of establishing companies exempt from State control, to exploit the Congo-Gaboon. That will paralyse the future of French Congo, which is nearly one fifth larger than continental France. M. de Bragga is lying by lotus-eating here since three years, that which clearly demonstrates he is not an absolute necessity at Stanley Pool. He receives a salary of 30,000 fr. a year, plus 14,000 fr. for extras. His private Secretary receives 6000 fr. salary. The united exports and imports of the Gaboon-Congo are over 7 fr. millions a nually.

M. Stanislas Aravelo, of Buenos Ayres, has created quite a sensation. He has purchased the bull "Cadet," which was awarded the prize of honor at last months' agricultural show held in Paris. He paid 10,000 fr. for the animal—which is a beauty. It was first reared, as well as owned, by an humble peasant farmer, in the department of Allier.

It is not at all a certainty that any of the Exhibition buildings will be retained. If France be able pay for her glory, it is claimed that she is sufficiently fruitful in the production of that commodity. The pretty palace erected by the Argentine Republic is being rapidly taken down. The plates are nearly all removed, numbered and packed. It looks now a huge skeleton. In about another month "the place that knew it, will know it no more."

MEMS. FROM ROME.

Nowhere has the deposition and exile of Dom Pedro of Brazil created greater consternation than at the Quirinal. The revolutionary element is daily increasing in strength and influence, and the establishment of a republic in Italy in lieu of the present monarchy is within measurable distance. It is but a few days ago that at a meeting of the Provincial Council of Genoa M. de Nobili, the delegate from the great naval arsenal at Spezzia, declined to take part in the cries "Long life to the King". The sensation created by this attitude on his part reached the culminating point when the famous lawyer Argenti, representing Ronco Scrivina, and also the entire delegation from the city of Genoa arose in their places to express their adherence to the sentiments expressed by M. de Nobili in declining to cry "Long life to the King", and they one and all requested that their disloyal remarks concerning the sovereign should be entered upon the minutes of the meeting. A large number of Mayors of towns in other provinces, notably in that of Perugia, have insisted, when taking their oath of office, in adding a clause thereto stipulating their right to hold and profess their opinions in favour of the establishment of a republic. It is true that the Prime Minister has already punished two of these municipal functionaries, namely, the syndics of Umberide and of Citta di Castello, by depriving them of their office. But the majority have not even been visited with a reprimand.

The fact is that since the Royal Government claims to be founded not on divine right, but on popular will demonstrated by untrammeled public elections, it is obliged to proceed with great caution in dealing with these republican Mayors, who, after all, only assert their incontestible privilege to hold and profess whatever opinions they may choose. Both King Humbert and Signor Crispi, however, fully realize the danger of this growth of anti-monarchical feeling among the various branches of Government and municipal administration, and they are dismayed by the close and intimate connection between the republican movement and the Irredentist agitation.

The two things go hand in hand, and so powerful and important is the "Italia Irredenta" Association that we see the most prominent and leading statesmen, who profess to be conservatives, actually presiding at public banquets given to commemorate the "martyrdom" (as they describe the hanging) of Oberdank, the would-be assassin of the Emperor Francis Joseph, and that we hear of their inviting all present to join them in drinking to the early annexation by Italy of the Austrian city of Trieste and of the Austrian province Trentino. It was but on Friday last, just before the adjournment of Parliament for the Christmas holidays, that Signor Imbriani rose in the Chamber of Deputies and in an eloquent speech called attention to the fact that the day, December 20th, was the anniversary of the death of "that glorious martyr, Oberdank," whose "heroic patriotism" he linked to that of Garibaldi. The speech was received with the most enthusiastic applause, not only by the Opposition but also by the supporters of the Government.

In other monarchical countries of Europa patriotism is usually to be found united to loyalty to the Crown. Here in Italy, however, the two things are entirely distinct, and, indeed, it would appear that the more ardent the patriotism the more intense is the antipathy toward the throne. King Humbert is far from being popular, either with the classes or with the masses, and when he drives his phaeton along the Pincio of an afternoon during the Roman season, few hats are raised by his subjects in salute as he passes by. And in the suburbs, both here and around Monza, the favorite country seat of the royal family, cries of "Abbasso il Re! Abbasso il Colonello Austriaco!" (Down with the king! Down with the Austrian Colonel!) are frequently to be heard whenever crowds assemble for any popular feast or rejoicing. Of course, the clergy, who still retain an enormous influence over the minds of a people so superstitious as the Italian masses, encourage and foster the growth of this anti-monarchical feeling, convinced that by so doing they are serving the interests of their hierarchical chiefs at the Vatican, and hence it is that we are now within measureable distance of an Italian Republic.

The Piazza Colonna—the pride of Rome—is now enlarged to double its former size by the removal of a number of houses, and is to be still further augmented by pulling down several palaces which still obstruct its approaches. When this is done it will be one of the largest piazzas in the world. The Osservatore Romano, the organ of the Vatican, deplores these changes. But they are indispensable in view of the growth of the population and of the increased circulation in the streets. Moreover, whenever it is possible, historical and interesting monuments are left untouched, and acquire extra beauty by being isolated instead of being cramped up between narrow and almost uninhabitable streets, as they were formerly.

A sudden stop has been put to the manufacture of the new smokeless gunpowder at the Government mills at Fossano, and orders have been given to delay the shipments to Spezzia and to Naples of a couple million cartridges which were on the eve of being forwarded. It appears that news has been received from Berlin that the cold weather deteriorates the smokeless powder to such an extent as to render it almost useless. As both the German and Austrian War Departments have already in store vast quantities of cartridges made of this same powder, it will be realized that alarm prevails just now among the members of the triple alliance.

Railway Items.

The great news of the day yesterday was the final sale of the Western Railway for 41 millions gold to a London Syndicate. The price and the conditions have all been agreed on, and it is said that the offer will be officially accepted in a few days. This is certainly very good news, but there are many, however, who think that Governor Paz should not be too elated and should wait till the 14th August, the date fixed for the opening of fresh tenders. It is possible, it is urged, that even a better offer will be made. People in La Plata and throughout the Province are in high spirits, and great praise is bestowed on the Governor's Fabian policy which has afforded an opportunity of securing so splendid an offer. The Bolsa received a telegram yesterday morning confirming the news of the formation of the syndicate to take up the railway, with the pleasing tidings, moreover, that our stocks were again beginning to rise, and in the evening the following was wired giving interesting particulars:—

London, April 16th.

The Western Railway of Buenos Ayres has been sold to a powerful company which will spend one million sterling on the line. Arrangements have already been made for the leasing of the San Nicolas, Junin, Pergamino and Lujan branches to the Central Argentine Railway Co.; the Merlo and Saladillo branches have been leased to the Great Southern Railway Co. for £3000,000 payable to the Government, half in cash and balance in quarterly payments.

Telegrams were received from Mendoza yesterday stating that Mr. John Clark, the well-known railway contractor, and Dr. Isaac Chavarria, have set out to cross the Andes.

The R. P. Times says:—

"We are given to understand that Government has decided that the official inauguration of the Midland Railway shall not take place until the line between Paysandu and Salto is completed. This, we believe, will not be before September or October next.

"The Midland Railway Company has just established a complete telegraphic line between the Central Station and all the dependencies. The bridges over calles 1 and 2 are nearly ready for public use."

Here are a few Railway items from Rio:

The local press mention a report that the tram companies are compromised with the municipality to suppress passes for the sum of $100,000.

The Banco Constructor has submitted a proposal to the municipal intendentes to take over all the tram lines in Rio. What the conditions are have not transpired.

On the 2nd O Paiz mentions that the parties interested in the Taubaté and Ubatuba, S. Paulo, railway had modified their pretensions and would accept a guarantee of interest on $30,000 per kilometer.

The navvies on the Barao de Araruama railway extension recently seized the contractor for deferred wages and were threatening his life, but a strong force of police was sent to the place of disorder. The report is that the pay was three months behind hand.

The bonus just distributed to the shareholders of the S. Cristovao tram company amounted to 110,108$199, or about 5$500 per share. The company paid $18 per share dividend in January last.

In reply to a communication from the director of public works of the state of Rio de Janeiro in which were pointed out what were considered irregular acts of the Sapucahy railway, in announcing that the 7 per cent guarantee to the S. Isabel do Rio Preto railway was part of the security offered for the recent loan, the governor says that the state is not called upon to make public acts of companies not in accordance with regulations, but is only to meet legally constituted engagements.

The Chairman of the National Railway Board has applied to Government for authority to raise the tariff of the Andine Railway. This is fair enough in view of the premium on gold and the example of other companies. The following table will show what certain companies have done in the way of raising the tariff:

	Per cent.
Central Argentine	110
Argentine Great Western	50
Buenos Ayres and Pacific	50
Central Northern.....	50
Western Railway	80
Buenos Ayres and Rosario.....	60
Southern Railway	115

The plans of the railway from Villa Constitucion to Quevedo, of which Messrs. Drabble hold the concession, are now awaiting the approval Government.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The downward plunge of the gold premium yesterday caused a feeling of lightning-down-the-back in all circles. Even the very bears themselves felt giddy and grasped the leaf of their hats with both hands, as bulls, stags, lame ducks and gutter-snipes were all swept away, howling, by the fierce tornado. The sudden, savage and sweeping reaction in the gold premium will do as much harm as the rise, and in London they will say that we have all gone mad.

General Roca, Vice-President Pellegrini, and Dr. Ramon Carcano handed to President Juarez yesterday evening their respective manifestoes or political confessions, promising to eliminate their names as candidates of any party for the next Presidency. These three letters and the answer thereto of the President of the Republic will appear to-day in print. This case of triple political suicide promises to be transcendental.

The principal news from Montevideo yesterday was of a lady-like character, viz., that President Herrera's marriage has been postponed for a month. Superstitious people consider May an unlucky month for anything in the hymeneal line.

An evening colleague contains a splitting story. In one of the suburbs a poor man died, and his brother came to nail down the coffin, for which purpose he borrowed a hammer from one of the neighbours. It was twilight while he did his sad work, and when he had finished he turned to leave the room. Horror! He felt a mysterious hold on the tail of his coat. His blood froze in his veins. He dared not look back over his shoulder to see if the corpse had risen and seized him. He made one frantic effort to escape, failed and fainted. When driving in the last nail he had nailed his coattail to the coffin!!!

The police have pounced on a gang of burglars that have for a long time infested the city. They are all Spaniards, Argentines and Italians.

The Argentina, commander Rivadavia, has received her sailing orders and will soon start on a cruise to North America and Europe. The boys who have recently passed through the Naval School will go in her. It will be the first time that an Argentine man-of-war will be seen in United States waters.

Here is a true story of a printer's error: A Californian paper announced that a lady who was to sing in the choir of the Catholic Cathedral of San Francisco, on New Year's Day, would be worth hearing, as she was "one of the greatest sinners in the world". In his next issue, the unfortunate editor explained that he had written "singers", and offered the most profuse apologies for the mistake that had been made, which he said he regretted all the more because it was the lady's first appearance in their city.

We commend the following paragraph to our lady readers. Wearing diamonds in the day time (except in rings) strikes European visitors as against all rules of good taste:—"In Buenos Ayres it really is something extraordinary to see the quantity of diamonds worn. Rings, pins, bracelets, necklaces, ear-rings, brooches, even the backs of watches, being embellished with them to an extent that is almost appalling. A lady living there told a relative of mine that she was so disgusted with the enormous quantity of diamonds worn by all classes of society in a fairly decent position, that she believed her aversion to diamonds would be unconquerable during the remaining term of her natural life".

The unnatural closeness of the weather at this season of the year is subject of remark. In Montevideo they are all stewing as in mid summer. The sky looked rather cyclonish yesterday afternoon.

Hear. Hear. The Censor calls attention to the fact that that most pernicious institution, the Union Industrial, is again in the field to put its hand in the public pocket for more Protection, in other words even still higher import duties than those that already weigh on the necessaries of [illegible] fact that the extra import duties on sugar, wine, candles etc. has not caused the import of those articles to fall off in the least, and that the so called "industrias nacionales" are not worth the enormous sacrifice made to bolster them up. This is clear enough to all, except those few who benefit by the sacrifice. The precious Meat Bounty Act is another monstrosity that benefits a few at the expense of the many. The Londoners and Parisians get the benefit of it also, and laugh in their sleeves at the wretched, old time legislation that makes Argentine meat, after crossing the world, cheaper in London and Paris than in Buenos Ayres. A similar anomaly results in everything touched by the blighting hand of Protection.

It takes exactly twelve hours to get to Trenquelauquen now from Plaza Once, starting at 8.30 a.m. Whoever wants to see the finest camps under the Argentine sun should make the trip.

Some thoroughbred stock from Montevideo, for the R. S. Exhibition, will be landed here this morning.

Everybody thought that the influenza had taken its departure from this country. Not so, however. It is raging in San Luis, and the worst of it is that all the cases are succeeded by typhoid fever, and most of them end fatally. The poor [illegible] tanos!

The Duc de Montpensier, who late died, was known among spanish within by the name of "Nondepensier." Even in France he had a reputation for closefistedness, and it is said that a blind man at the Bridge of St. Cloud, having a centime [less than half a farthing] thrown into his hat by a passer by, exclaim

The flash in the pan! The motley rabble of stocks, dust covered and yellowish, after months of seclusion in banking vaults and iron safes, made an irruption on 'Change to-day. They all looked much the worse after their forcible seclusion, but they looked far better than might have been expected under the circumstances. As they were posted in rapid succession on the black board they were greeted with many an incredulous grin and nobody even cared to wonder whence came such a sudden, unexpected demand for them. Some well applied electric shock has galvanised them for the moment. How long will the distortion and writhing last? or do people really believe that this flash in the pan is the signal for the boom, so hopefully expected, yet so dismally distant, even in the heaving of to-day's epileptic fit!

Investors are a credulous tribe. They believe that we now enter on a period of reparation—it may be so, but how many years will atone for the squandering of 165 millions of shinplasters and twice that amount of Cedulas! Or do investors believe that a stroke of the pen, a change of name, the sale of a railway, or a political compromise can act like the magician's wand and effect a transformation! No, we have before us three bitter years to be passed in retrenchment and impoverishment. We have before us the incubation of a political regeneration, already conceived in the patriotic abnegation of three presidential aspirants. We have before us a financial and political horizon blackened by the clouds of errors towering behind us, and nothing short of a hurricane can clear the sky.

That hurricane must sweep away the tottering fabric of state banks in every shape and scatter to the winds their flimsy paper foundations. It must reveal the fate of all spurious banking and financing; it must teach people that wealth lies only in industry, national greatness lies only in honest work and government. Shinplasters and Cedulas will not add one iota to the national wealth; they may plunder the unfortunate dollar of the many and the difference may go into the pocket of the few, but as factors of wealth they are nil when launched outside their legitimate orbit to help speculation or enhance inflation. Such rotten foundations must crumble, as they have, the dollar to 33½ cents and the Cedula to 49, and the sooner they make place for sounder bases the better.

Mushroom companies are doomed. They may have weathered the gale for three months and now gather fresh hopes at a moment that a sudden calm has enabled them to quote better prices on a Bolsa black board, but they were cradled in speculation and inflation and they must linger when affairs drop to their normal level. They live in hopes that the new Finance Minister will launch new issues of paper money; let them not be deceived. The gold premium governs to-day; it upset a ministry last week. A fresh issue of paper might do worse. Retrenchment is the order of the day, and that alone is a fatal blow to the once frisky speculative companies—liquidation will be the bruise. To-day's respite is a delusion—it is like the bright flicker of a dying ember.

A dispute between the firms of Bemberg and Bancalari over the delivery of 150,000 bags of maize of which 21,000 were rejected as bad grain, has been decided by Mr. J L Somoza, as arbitrator, who rules that Bemberg and Company must receive the 21,000 bags in question, pay 8000 dollars damages and their own costs.

According to Santa Fe advices, shipments of wheat are going on as briskly from that province as ever, large ships leaving full every day. Prices have also advanced considerably due to the more favorable advices from Europe, the quotation now being 6¾ per 100 kilos, and flour zero special 13½ dollars the 90 kilos. Business very brisk.

The Capital of Rosario urges the construction of a double track from Tortugas to Villa Maria as the only means of providing for the transport of the immense stock of grain from the Cordobese departments neighbouring with Santa Fe. The first passenger train from Las Yerbas to Canada de Gomez was despatched to-day.

San Luis has at last got a tramway, the whole population turning out yesterday to inaugurate the first section. In the rural districts the drought is much felt and heavy losses apprehended. Crisis is so severely felt that even the prime necessaries of life are getting beyond the reach of the poorer classes.

Yesterday in the produce market the sale was effected of 30,000 bags of wheat from Mr C Guerrero's estancia San Antonio, at 10 dollars the 100 kilos. This is the highest price yet paid for French wheat from the South, and the sale called much attention.

The Corti heirs have informed the Courts that the connection with the Carabassa bank has been dissolved by mutual consent, the partners, Messrs. J. B. and J. A. Carabassa and J. Frederking, taking over the liabilities and assets. Mr. J. Maupas jun. has retired from the firm of Maupas and Co. The new firm of Wanklyn, Crane and Co. has been registered successors to Neild and Co.

Mr. J. C. Zimmermann, the well-known broker, leaves for Europe on the 29th inst. Mr. Zimmermann is chairman of the Comision del Interior of the Bolsa.

Mr. Adolphus Elias has asked the Camara Sindical to take his name off the list of brokers.

Mr. Somoza has sold 10,000 bags of maize, new crop, at reserved price.

Exchange brokers reported bills offered at all rates to-day from 47¾d to 48¾d and 5.03 to 5.08 francs on Paris. Rates thus continue nominal and takers are few and far between.

At the second hour there was much excitement and enthusiasm on 'Change over the fall in gold and improvement in stocks, but towards the close of the hour there was a slight relapse in quotations all round, to which Cedulas proved the only exception. Both Provincial and National series kept firm as a rock, and it seems that heavy purchases are being made for European account. The gold quotation dropped as low as 256, but reached to 265 and closed at this rate, a small business being done for the end of the month at 264 to 267. National Bank shares shot up to 133, but closed at 127. Catalinas were treated much the same, as they stood at one moment at 35.50, but closed at 32 50. Altogether there was a very brisk movement at the hour and the table of operations is interesting reading.

The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—

The steamer Edam arrived in Montevideo to day from Amstardam with 160 passengers and 200 tons cargo for this port.

The s.s. Campana also arrived from Havre with 200 passengers and 600 cubic metres cargo, including 1000 barrels of sugar.

The revenue of the Custom-House today amounted to $158,810,98.

It must greatly interest the market to know that the new Minister of Hacienda, Sr. Uriburu, does not intend to bring forward any project to increase the emission or to establish "curso forzoso"; on the contrary, he considers that the market must be left to itself, that it requires no project whatever, but rather methodization and fiscalization, and that the resources of the country and the Government are ample without interfering with the present order of things. Mr. Uriburu was waited on to-day by hundreds of friends who congratulated him on his nomination.

Telegrams announcing the great improvement in everything in the market were sent to London, Paris and Genoa to-day, which will greatly facilitate business operations that the recent sudden rise in gold had interrupted.

Everyone on 'Change asked this evening how long will the present boom last. The Bolsa is divided in opinion. Some regard it as a mere flash in the pan, whilst others consider that confidence is restored and that we may consider that we have at last touched bottom and that now we are on the mend.

Mr. Guani, of Montevideo, was welcomed on 'Change. He reports the market down there in a very critical state. He leaves for the Parana. Mr. Perkins, estanciero, of Chacabuco, was welcomed; he says he never saw things in the camp looking better.

The "Aquila's" mails from Genova, dates to 28th ult., were received to-day. Money was much easier and business better in that market.

The Rosario Port Company have applied for registration of statutes. This company has been formed to purchase the rights and three concessions of Mr. Juan Canals. The capital has been fixed at 15 millions gold in 150,000 shares of 100 dollars. A clause in the statutes empowers the company to raise the capital by 10 millions.

The market is beginning to rally vigorously under the prospects of an improved state of affairs politically and financially. The atmosphere has, in fact, begun to show signs of clearing all round, and when the Provincial Mortgage Bank has been looked into and the "centro agricola" muddle investigated, a still more vigorous reaction in public opinion may be expected. Governor Paz has taken up this question with becoming energy. Appreciating fully the gravity of the charges formulated against the bank and its management, he has named a committee, composed of most competent and impartial men, to investigate thoroughly the charges made. No more advisable step could have been taken, and public opinion may be now considered satisfied. The committee is composed of Messrs. F. Agote, C. S. Zavaleta, L. Saenz Peña, R. Varela and M. Gorostiaga, names of unmistakable weight and influence in the market.

According to late telegrams from London, National A and Provincial J of series Cedulas both reflect a decline, particularly the latter, which is now quoted at 28 o/o. The fall in National A has been 1 o/o, the present quotation being 38 o/o.

According to Montevidean advices, the Government has had to apply to the Chambers for power to raise a loan to call in Treasury bonds and to cover the 3½ million deficit: the loan will be a furth 2 burthen to the general revenue of 190,000 dols. In many establishments the employees hvae struck for shorter hours and increased wages: from the Montevert establishment alone 195 peons have withdrawn

The meeting of shareholders of the Constructora Argentina took place yesterday, Mr. Charles Salas in the chair. A motion to allow the shareholders to buy properties payable in shares at par was put and passed, as well as a further proposition to continue working under the old statutes. The company has built a block of some 70 houses in Calle Gran Chaco and Piedad which are almost finished, and the sale of these properties should enhance considerably the value of the shares.
